LEWIS DESCRIBES MINER'S DEMANDS BEFORE COMMITTEE

LARGELY A MOVE TO FORCE REGULARITY OF EMPLOYMENT.

CONGRESSMAN BLACK QUESTIONS THE WITNESS

President of Miners Discusses Question of Hours and Production.

WASHINGTON April 4—Miners demands for a six hour day and five day week, issues involved in the national coal strike, were described by John L. Lewis president of the United Mine Workers in continuing his testimony today before the house committee, as largely a move to force regularity of employment

Representative Black democrat Texas, calculated that if the five day six hour demand was granted the public would pay $244 000 000 additional for the same amount of coal they are now getting each year

Who will that come out of? Mr Black demanded after figuring up his total

"Nobody Mr Lewis retorted "because your figures are absurd

Mr Black pressed his calculations

When the 12 hour was changed to the 10 hour day Mr Lewis interrupted, "the efficiency was increased and the production per man per day increased The same effect continued when the 10 hour day was cut to eight hours The efficiency increased more than sufficient to make up the loss The fact has been authoritatively determined and universally recognized

I can't figure out how you can expect the production to increase Mr Black said "after you have reduced the hours of work down below a reasonable basis

I'd like to point out that we are willing to discuss all these demands around a council table with operators" Mr Lewis returned and "then if we cannot show them to be reasonable we won't expect to press them

Mr Black declared that while wages of anthracite miners now can purchase 18 per cent more than they could in 1920, the purchasing power of the farmer in my territory has been cut 50 per cent since 1920," and asked Mr Lewis Do you think that industrial and transportation workers can long withstand the pressure to have them take some of the loss too"

It is well to remember that during the war farmers got the advantage of great inflation in their prices and profits" Mr Lewis replied while we contend that mine workers were never able to get the full increases in living cost represented in their wage advances

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK April 4—Yesterday's reactions were followed by a firmer tone in the cotton market early today with new crop months making new high ground for the movement on reports of heavy rains at some points in the southwest If anything Liverpool was a little disappointing but the market here opened steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points and soon showed net gains of 14 to 20 points on covering by Wall street shorts Liverpool and New Orleans buying and some spot house buying of July July sold up to 17 35 or within 13 points of last week's best price while October advanced to 17 14 or the highest price touched since the break of last January Nearly six inches of rainfall was reported at Dallas and there were heavy rains at some other points but no rain of consequence in central or eastern belt sections

A more favorable view of English politics and prospects for results from the Genoa conference also helped the tone of the forenoon market and for a time trading was more active than it has been for several days Firmer foreign exchange rates and the ruling of the stock market promoted the advance and while trading became less active prices held steady early in the noon hour with active months about 18 to 27 points net higher July sold up to 17 45 and October to 17 17

The market was quiet during the middle of the afternoon offerings were small and prices held generally steady at and 17 46 for July and 17 20 for October or 25 to 35 points net higher

NEW ORLEANS April 4—A much more active market developed in cotton today as the result of the heavy rainfall over the western half of the belt with indications that the wet weather would work eastward

Prices were sent 11 to 18 points higher in the first half hour May rising to 17 [illegible]

The market was flooded with private reports from Texas telling of rainfalls approaching cloudbursts of rivers and creeks out of their banks or fields of young cotton washed away and of much replanting being necessary over wide areas Buying was stimulated for both accounts and in the trading up to noon prices were just 2c to 3c points higher than the close of yesterday May trading up to 16 86 and December up to 16 42 new high level for that position which was the strongest on the boards

WICHITA FALLS HAS GUESTS AT TUESDAY IOWA PARK LUNCH

IRRIGATION PROJECT IS DISCUSSED BY THE CHAMBER GUESTS.

CO-OPERATION PLEDGED BY MEMBERS PRESENT

Spirit of Harmony Prevails in Planning For Development of County.

IOWA PARK, TEXAS, April 4—The business men's luncheon was attended by 76, which included a delegation from Wichita Falls water precinct No 1 directors Also a goodly number of the land owners along the Wichita river valley that will be affected by the irrigation project now under construction After luncheon, served at the Park Inn had been enjoyed, Dr J Frank Clark, acting as chairman, made a talk stating the object of this particular gathering which was to discuss and get to work making the necessary arrangements with precinct No 1 for building the north side canal from the diversion dam and thus assure the people of irrigation as soon as possible, and by vote the directors of this precinct were instructed to meet with the directors of No 1 and get the exact figures and necessary steps to be taken to make final action and close this matter for good.

Clint Wood, first speaker introduced made a splendid talk explaining Wichita Falls' attitude in the matter in very plain terms and stated the directors of precinct No 1 were ready and willing to meet No 2 directors in an effort to get together on this matter and form plans to get this north canal, and welcomed them to take the first step

Engineer Thomasson next made a very interesting talk, giving his various experiences in irrigation work and giving figures showing the amount of water that would be stored and the amount of acres that it would be possible to irrigate He stated that this project when completed would be the fifth largest of its kind and was considered an ideal location for such a dam. He told the gathering how fortunate they were in having such natural advantages making it possible to have such an enormous storage at such small expense, thereby lessening the burden of the people He also said the work was progressing rapidly

C H Clark also made a splendid talk explaining the different phases of the work and the advantages to be derived from irrigation, making an appeal to the people of this community to take advantage of the opportunity while it is possible for them to do so

Geo Keith of the Wichita Produce company and the two Messrs Downing now engaged in irrigation at Wichita Falls made talks showing the great profits possible from irrigation

Mr McFall made a short talk stating the necessity for a chamber of commerce in every town and the good work they are doing and that every citizen and the farmers in the near vicinity should be members and work with this organization Mr McFall extended an invitation for one of its members to be his guest at the Wichita Falls Rotary club luncheon every Thursday and to be represented at their civic and welfare meetings stating his object was to get the people of Wichita county closer together and work in harmony for a bigger and better county

The chamber of commerce extended thanks to all who attended from Wichita Falls and for the splendid talks and the welcoming spirit to join them in making this county prosperous and a good place to live The land owners present were thanked for their attendance and interest in the face of the muddy condition of the roads

TELLIGEN PLEASES LOCAL PLAYGOERS IN "BLIND YOUTH"

Local amusement fans were treated to a high type of entertainment Monday night when the comedy-drama "Blind Youth" was presented at the Wichita theater, with Lou Tellegen in the leading role In spite of inclement weather there was a fair house and an unusually appreciative one

"Blind Youth" is a rather obvious affair, both in its dramatic and comic development, and its action is rather strained in spots as for instance in the first act when the decidedly drunken Maurice delivers a very eloquent dissertation on the distinction between physical and spiritual love Again, it has not been the writer's observation that folks in love put in much time discoursing about the flowers and the dew and the sunshine on the hilltops and such like But the plot is too engrossing and the movement to rapid to permit of any dull moments, and the comedy is clean and clever and pleasing

Lou Tellegen's art as an actor had an apt vehicle, and he made the most of the dramatic opportunities afforded Both in facial expression and in voice inflection he went at his difficulties with a feeling and tenseness that were gripping

The supporting cast was an excellent one and the production as a whole is of a sort that local playlovers would like to have more of

STATE CHAIRMAN OF PARRISH CAMPAIGN ISSUES STATEMENT

PRAISES LOYAL FRIENDS AND WORKERS AND PRESS OF STATE.

VOICES PROFOUND GRIEF AT HIS ENTIMELY DEATH

Favorable Sentiment For the Candidate Crystalized Fast Last Two Weeks.

FORT WORTH TEXAS April 4—W D Smith state chairman of the Parrish for United States Senate Campaign in an interview to the press today expresses appreciation and gives praise to the press of the state and loyal friends and workers

I am sure all feel as shares in the profound grief and regret that is felt by the loyal friends who inaugurated the campaign of Congressman Luther Walton Parrish for the United States senate in Fort Worth recently, by reason of his untimely death

The fullest appreciation is due his many political followers and loyal friends all over the state who recognized his ability and splendid qualifications to fill the high office to which he aspired They remained loyal and held the line of his political fences to the very last hour of his life—hoping against all odds that with his wonderful constitution and heroic courage he would win in the great battle for the life that had been so full of accomplishment for good and promised so much for the future It is to them that I would express not only my personal appreciation for the assistance they have rendered but the sincere thanks and gratitude felt by members of Mr Parrish's family as well His had so many friends and admirers in Texas whose names and addresses we do not have at headquarters that it will be impossible to write to each one personally, therefore I take this method of reaching them

I can but feebly express our gratitude to the press of the state which has so generously and unselfishly supported Mr Parrish and the issues upon which he based his candidacy, also for the beautiful tributes and messages of sympathy they have conveyed to the people of Texas through their generous columns

I have never witnessed the crystalizing of sentiment in favor of any candidate so rapidly as has been the case during the past two weeks toward Mr Parrish's candidacy. He exemplified in his candidacy those high ideals of government, political freedom and integrity for which our forefathers laid down their lives Possessed of a matchless physique a big brain, broad vision whole hearted devotion to God and the public weal—a native Texan of whom our great state could justly be proud, he would have made us an ideal United States senator and, had he lived undoubtedly would have been elected by an overwhelming majority

Very few men accomplish in a lifetime the success and recognition that Lucian W Parrish had attained at the age of 44 years He had built up an adequate life competency for himself and family and with signal ability and grim determination, born of true patriotic zeal and a fervent desire to serve the people of his native state in the field where he felt he could be most useful, Mr Parrish was preparing to devote the remainder of his life his splendid talents and untiring energy to that end

PRESIDENT OF B. & O. IS BEFORE THE COMMITTEE

McAdoo Charged Roads Had Broken Down Before Control By Government.

WASHINGTON April 4—Figures showing the railroads of the country moved only two per cent more traffic in 1918 than in 1917 were cited by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, before the senate interstate commerce committee today to refute the recent testimony of William G McAdoo, former director general of railroads to the effect that the roads had broken down before being placed under government control Mr Willard appeared at the resumption of the committee hearings on the general railroad situation He declared 'the serious situation' which developed under the war load in 1917 might rather be attributed a 'failure, if not a breakdown of our system of railroad regulation as then in effect"

Rapidly mounting operating expenses in 1917 were proving a serious financial problem for many of the roads he said because under the law they were unable to advance their rates without permission from the interstate commerce commission The commission he said did not seem willing (perhaps did not feel authorized under the law) to deal with the matter with such promptness and liberality as the situation in my opinion demanded

'Former Director General McAdoo has pointed with pride and justifiably so' Mr Willard continued to the record of accomplishments of the railroads under his direction during 1918, but the figures show that the same roads that moved 430 000 000,000 ton miles in 1917 moved only 440 000,000,000 ton miles in 1918 or about two per cent more

Quoting from President Wilson's address to congress in January, 1918 in which he stated that the taking over of the roads was "not because of any dereliction or failure on their part, but only because there are some things which the government can do and private management cannot." Mr Willard declared, the former president clearly showed thereby that he did not feel the roads "had failed to do all that could be expected of them under the circumstances"

Despite the 'congestion and confusion which naturally followed the country's entrance into the war," Mr Willard said "the railroads showed an effective capacity for co-operation under the executive's railroad war board in 1917, handling a volume of traffic 127,000,000,000 ton miles greater than that handled two years before

FIRE DAMAGES INTERIOR OF PRESIDENT'S HOUSE AT WILLIAM AND MARY

WILLIAMSBURG, VA, April 4—The interior of the historic president's house at the college of William and Mary was partly burned last night by fire which is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in cleaning rags in a closet. No one was in the house at the time.

Colonial furniture of a rare type on the first floor was saved from the flames, but other furniture of a similar period on the second floor was lost.

The president's house was built in 1732 and was the headquarters of General Cornwallis prior to the siege of Yorktown Last night's fire was similar to the one which in 1781 destroyed the interior and left only the walls standing It was at that time occupied by French officers serving with Washington.

SPECTACULAR AND EXPENSIVE OIL FIRE BURNS ITSELF OUT

SAPULPA, OKLA, April 4—The most spectacular and costly oil tank fire in the history of Sapulpa burned itself out after raging more than 36 hours, doing damage estimated at $300,000 and threatening property worth more than a million dollars

Early this morning tank No 38 the third tank to catch fire at the Sapulpa Refining company's plant here, after a lightning stroke Sunday night fired a 55 000-barrel tank, boiled over and rapidly died out,

It was this tank that had constantly threatened the entire refining plant and an army of fire fighters was on duty throughout the night fruitlessly battling with the flames

When the oil boiled over, however, the flaming liquid poured out on the north side of the tank and was carried away from the refinery buildings

The oil spread again over the St Louis and San Francisco railroad right of way and traffic was stopped for two hours A squad of trackmen who had been kept on the scene rapidly replaced the damaged rails and train service this morning was again normal.

Weak, Thin, and Run-Down on Three Big Meals a Day

What to do to help put on good firm flesh, increase weight, strength and energy and obtain a more beautiful form and figure

Since the discovery of an amazing food factor called Vitamines, science now shows why thousands may be thin, weak and undernourished on three big meals a day. No matter how much you eat if your food lacks a sufficient quantity of Vitamines, you become weak, thin, nervous, emaciated, easily fatigued, run-down and "all-in", and may actually develop serious disease. This is especially true of those who eat principally soups, white bread, fish, potatoes, tinned fruits and vegetables, pies and cakes, and other foods which have been deprived of their Vitamines, either by throwing away the husks and skins of the foods which contain the Vitamines, or in which the Vitamines have been destroyed by the high degree of heat used in cooking.

While we now know the almost miracle-like results produced by Vitamines, even the most learned scientists are yet unable to explain their exact nature. We do know, however, that when taken with organic Nuxated Iron, people who have been thin, weak, nervous and run-down, in some cases even for years, often quickly gain surprising strength and energy, put on good, firm flesh, wonderfully round out face and figure and become more alert and vigorous both physically and mentally.

By helping to create millions of new, red blood cells, Nuxated Iron taken after meals unquestionably increases the power of the body to transform lifeless food matter into living cells, flesh, muscle and tissue, and Vitamines taken before meals mixes with your food and acts as a powerful nutritious substance. Without organic iron in your blood, your food merely passes through your body without doing you any good—you do not get any nourishment or strength out of it and therefore both food and Vitamines are absolutely useless. It is for this reason that organic Nuxated Iron should be taken with Vitamines.

To prove to you the surprising results which we feel should be quickly obtained from this valuable combination, arrangements have been made with druggists in this city to give you A LARGE DOLLAR PACKAGE OF GENUINE YEAST VITAMINE TABLETS ABSOLUTELY FREE with your purchase of a bottle of Nuxated Iron. Weigh yourself before you start taking them, then again after ten days and see how much you have increased in weight, also in strength, energy and endurance If you have not obtained all and even greater benefits than you expected the manufacturers will promptly refund your money

Free

IMPORTANT: We recommend that you do not take Vitamines unless you wish your weight increased—if you merely wish greater strength, energy, physical and mental vigor, we recommend that you take Nuxated Iron only.

Grandma's Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound,' which darkens the hair so naturally so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance

4-CORNERED RACE FOR PARRISH PLACE SEEMS LIKELY NOW

MISS BLANTON ANNOUNCES SHE WILL BE A CANDIDATE.

CALL FOR SPECIAL ELECTION DUE SOON

Mrs. Parrish Decides Late Monday Not to Seek Seat For Unexpired Term.

A four-cornered contest for the congressional seat vacated by the death of Lucian Parrish now seems in prospect. Governor Neff is expected to call the special election for some time early in May.

Miss Annie Webb Blanton, superintendent of public instruction, and a resident of Denton county, is the fourth entry in the contest, according to information reaching here Tuesday S A L Morgan of this city, Guinn Williams of Decatur and W S Moore of Gainesville are the other three entries

The decision of Mrs Parrish, announced late Monday, not to be a candidate for the place, resulted in Guinn Williams and S A L Morgan, previously announced aspirants, entering the contest for the unexpired term Both had stated as had Miss Blanton, that they would not run for the unexpired term if Mrs. Parrish should seek it Mrs Parrish's statement follows

"My heart is filled with gratitude toward our friends who have wanted to honor me with the place left vacant by my dear husband Lucian Walton Parrish But I feel that I should not undertake the responsibilities involved and have decided not to be a candidate for the unexpired term.

NEW COUNCILMEN TO GET FAMILIAR WITH PROSPECTIVE DUTIES

WILL PARTICIPATE IN AN ADJOURNED SESSION THIS WEEK.

GRAVELING OF 7TH TO BALL PARK IS ORDERED

Collection of $9,000 Claim Against Electric Co. to Be Considered Shortly.

A decision to gravel Seventh street from Michigan street to the baseball park was reached by the city council Monday night, the commissioners feeling that the fans were entitled to an improved highway

This was practically the only definite action taken at the meeting although several matters were discussed The council recessed until Wednesday evening, at which time the new members chosen in Tuesday's election will be invited to 'sit in' and get familiar with their jobs The new officials will not be sworn in until next Tuesday night

One matter that is hanging fire and which the council wants to settle if possible, before the new administration takes hold is a claim of approximately $9000 against the electric company for water used by that corporation Under its contract with the city for furnishing power for the water system's pumps the electric company is entitled to a million gallons of water a month It is claimed that the company has used enough water in excess of this amount to create a charge, at minimum rates of about $9000 P A Rogers of the electric company said Monday night that Dallas officials wanted an opportunity to be heard on the matter

Adjustment of water department finances is another pending matter The council contends that interest and sinking fund payments on water bonds, amounting to about $140,000, have been paid out of tax collections and that the city's general funds should be reimbursed to that amount out of water department earnings This matter will probably be adjusted this week

THREE IMPORTANT TESTS DRILLING IN ELIASVILLE REGION

With three tests now drilling north and west of Eliasville, this section of Young county is looking forward to a busy summer The newest test is the Gulf Production company's No 1 on the Burnett tract located about six miles north of Eliasville The Panhandle company's test on the Martin farm a short distance north of town is attracting a great amount of attention and is expecting to pick up one of the sands within the next few days At present the test is drilling around 2600 feet Two miles west of Eliasville another test has been spudded in by Ross and associates on the Cotton survey

The three tests form practically a triangle in the northwest Eliasville field, and in the event of any one making a well a big producing area will be added to this part of the county These tests hope to pick up the Stephens county formation in Young county. Although the prolific Stephens county line has approached to the boarder of this county, all previous tests in Young have failed to encounter it

In the south Eliasville field just across the line in Stephens county the Mid-Kansas company Tuesday completed their No 4 well on the Adkins tract and is making around 1000 barrels from the 2200 foot sand.

HOME CANNING INDUSTRY IS ONE OF MANY PROFITABLE IRRIGATION POSSIBILITIES

BY FRANK S REID

The completion of the local irrigation project as has been suggested will mean nothing to the community in which it benefits if the people themselves and those who settle upon the irrigated land will not take every advantage of an education in the things that will concern irrigated farming Where irrigation is practiced in the western states, and where the people themselves have been alive to every opportunity to make two blades of grass grow where one did and where they will encourage experimental stations, agricultural agents and every agency possible, the success has been marked, and so this brings to the writer's mind, among other things that have been mentioned in previous articles concerning irrigation work, based upon his actual experience, the disposal of surplus products of the farm

In southern Idaho in the Twin Falls country, the ranchers were thoroughly alive to every situation that confronted them and one of these situations was the home canning of products of the farm for winter use and for sale It was really wonderful the enthusiasm that came about from experiments in the home canning of products of the farm by several of the leading citizens of the community Girls canning clubs, boys canning clubs if you please canning clubs everywhere in the home, in the towns as centers, in the county seat

The work was undertaken in a small way among the schools and the students became thoroughly proficient in canning fruits, vegetables, meats, putting them up attractively for sale if they did not wish to retain them for the home Competition was keen among the students because there were so many who became proficient in the art of canning This broadened out until everyone had the fever—even the writer—who can say with some degree of pride that he put up many a quart of fruit—cherries, peaches, pears and all with a great degree of pleasure and satisfaction, and after all it is really the only satisfactory way to overcome a burden of work during the canning season

The work started in a small way, as I have stated, many people purchasing the home canning aluminum steam cookers There are many good brands on the market I refer in particular to a pressure cooker which is made in Denver, Colo They make a cooker that will cook three quarts or four pints at one time This cooker costs about $20 When one thinks of the laborious process of putting up fruit by the old method as compared to steam cooking where so much labor is done away with, the purchase of one of these cookers in the home is a splendid investment They are very simple to operate and full directions for cooking any kind of food come with it, so that one can have excellent results almost immediately

The success of the home cooker brought forth enlarged possibilities until the county commissioners of Gooding county, Idaho, bought a small canning outfit for the people of the county It cost them but a few hundred dollars, and residents of the county could go to the cannery and have their surplus vegetables, meats etc, put up at just what the cans and sugar cost The county commissioners figured on the initial purchase that 5 000 cans would surely be enough as a trial but at the end of that season 45,000 cans of home products were put up At that time it cost about nine cents for every two and one-half size can for vegetables, fruits and meats in proportion. It was a wonderful success and it was not long until the various towns in the county were besieging the county commissioners to buy canning outfits for their towns and so this opportunity will present itself right in this community, and the work of an experimental farm and county agent thoroughly familiar with all phases of agricultural work will bring to the farmers many rare chances to bring out the very best in his work

Now that the irrigation project is well under way, and prospects encouraging for an early completion of the work—or at least sooner than contract time it is up to some agency to work out by some means or other, some effort to get an experimental station in our midst where everything of an agricultural nature can be demonstrated

William found a pocketbook But the string jerked it back

It looked like a happy discovery as it lay there on the sidewalk—until the discoverer reached to pick it up. Then the hidden string jerked it away. All William got was disappointment.

That's the way a good many people have found it to be with the comfort and cheer they thought they had secured in tea and coffee. When they came to depend on it—there was a hidden string, and nothing left but disappointment.

The drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee, is a nerve stimulant. Constant stimulation of the nerves often produces rebellion that takes the form of sleeplessness, headaches, irritability, high blood pressure. That's the string to tea and coffee.

Postum, that wholesome and delightful cereal beverage, is completely satisfying and there's no harmful quality whatsoever, to jerk away the comfort which you find in this splendid table drink. Any member of the family may enjoy Postum with any meal—and there will be no after-regrets.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by grocers.

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school one for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter." Mrs. WM. S. HUGHES, Greenville, Del.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value

Mothers—daughters, why not try it?

THE BERTHA IS BACK

NEW YORK April 3—And occasionally one finds on the newest of frocks something reminiscent of the days when a bertha fluttered at the shoulders of every gown that laid any claim to smartness

This Claire frock of palest lavender Canton crepe wears a two tiered semi-bertha of chiffon edged and weighted with finely pleated taffeta

Such a shoulder treatment naturally calls for the fullest of skirts and this too is ornamented with fine pleatings which extend quite around the hem and mount panelwise to the waist line at the side fronts

The tight bodice is sashed with narrow silver ribbons tied and caught at the front with lavender velvet roses Narrow sashings are quite the thing this season and they invariably extend below the hem line of the gown and contrast in color Royal blue is often seen on black and the silver and lavender combination of the Claire gown is exceedingly good

WOMEN'S WORK 25 YEARS AGO INSPIRES WORKERS OF THE CHURCH TODAY

What the little band of eighteen members of the First Baptist church Women's Auxiliary accomplished twenty-five years ago in Wichita Falls proved a most effective inspiration for the members of the six auxiliary of today when it was pictured in a spirited reminiscence to the latter by Mrs. W. H. Davis Monday afternoon

The Baptist women held their regular monthly all-day meeting at the church, opening with a business meeting at 2 o'clock. It was during this business meeting, with the $2-500 pledge remainder the chief topic of discussion, that Mrs. Davis made her splendid talk, delineating in a quaintly graphic style the days when the number of horses tied in front of the hostess' home told how many women were attending mission meetings. In contrast to the present day method of counting auto "noses" She told how the little band of eighteen sold ice cream held "weighing" parties, made up their 'mite offerings and worked faithfully and energetically in a score of different ways in an effort to assist the church to pay its big debt of $300 In conclusion Mrs Davis declared her faith in the ability of the present band of workers to raise the remaining $2,500 of the auxiliary's pledge of $5,000 toward the church debt giving the same spiritual determination and the same application of energy in the big cause

Wylie Robertson followed Mrs Davis with a brief talk about old times, telling of various enterprises of the church of those days and how they were put over, finishing with the present responsibility of the men and women members At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Robertson took volunteer pledges from the members present, and several hundreds of dollars in pledges were reported by the ten circle leaders Rev Mr Powers also made a talk, in appreciation of the women's efforts

After the business session a good program was given, in which Mrs E I. Fulton, Miss Ella Merle Mathis, Miss Bruce Dickson, Mrs Jerry Shaeffer took part Mrs McGinnis led the devotional service, and during a round table discussion of ways and means of raising money there were many offers of 'talents' for the exchange, under the direction of Mrs J L Maxwell

During the dinner hour Mrs. W. K. Miles read a letter from the missions missionary in China Miss Janie Watkins, which was exceptionally interesting Dr Knickerbocker also came in and made a brief talk speaking of the 'win-one" campaign now on

The business session opened with a song, with Mrs Carithers at the piano, and the devotional, led by Mrs Frances Rahl, who chose for her subject Love" Mrs. Carithers, president of the auxiliary presided over the session and heard good reports from the treasurer, Mrs Guy Raley the social service superintendent, Mrs Gorshine the superintendent of supplies Mrs J W Stone, Mrs Haynie, Bible study leader and Mrs Grover Bullington cradle roll superintendent. The society voted to send a miscellaneous box to the Virginia K. Johnson home in Dallas with $25 allowed on materials for clothing which the Wesley Girls class volunteered to make up The society also voted to serve luncheon on two days to the delegates to the Epworth League conference which convenes in Wichita Falls in June (7-11)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE RESCUE

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Two dreams oozed out, like smoke out of a pipe.

Nancy and Nick were sleeping peacefully under a nice bush in the pleasant valley between the Electric Mountain and the Elderdown Mountain when Twelve Toes left the magician's star and flew to a place in the dark sky right over their heads He had turned into a bat you know

Then he untied the string of the bag he carried and two dreams oozed out like smoke out of a pipe

These dreams, unlike smoke, went down instead of up, and made straight for the Twins

One dream whispered to Nancy, It s morning and you and Nick are awake Get up and walk in the direction I shall show you You will be over the rest of the Seven Mountains before nightfall"

The other dream whispered the same thing to Nick

So Nancy got up and Nick got up and the two of them began to walk in their sleep, but in opposite directions.

They both dreamed that they were walking over the Elderdown Mountain and over the Chocolate Mountain and over the Five-and-ten-cent-store Mountain and over the Mountain-that-wasn t-there!

But really, Nancy was walking away from the mountains eastward, and Nick was walking away from them, westward, leaving the lost record near the place they had been sleeping

If Nancy had kept on she would have walked over a high cliff, and if Nick had kept on he would have walked into a thorny patch where sharp thorns would have torn him to pieces

But again the red feather rescued them It jumped out of Nick's pocket and, stretching itself on the ground, caught Nick's toe just as he was about to take his last step That woke him.

Then flying after Nancy the feather did exactly the same thing Another step would have brought her to the edge of the precipice But her toe caught she tripped, fell and wakened!

'Where am I?" she cried 'And where s Nick? What s happened?"

Alkali In Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

And ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth.—Acts 1:8.

Born about 389, St. Patrick's training was Christian. Seized in a raid about 405, he was for six years a slave in Ireland. Escaped to the continent, he was for some years an inmate of the monastery of Lerins, off the southern coast of France. In 432 he was ordained a missionary bishop, and began the work in Ireland which ended with his death in 461. Few facts survive; but of his zeal there can be no question, and as little of his abilities as an organizer under whom the hitherto scattered Christianity of Ireland was systematized and made great advance.—Walker's Church History.

A BIG PROBLEM IN ONE OF OUR BASIC INDUSTRIES.

The coal mines of the country are closed up.

More than six hundred thousand men are on strike; their pay is stopped; their families will soon be suffering.

The country's surplus stock of coal is being eaten into and if the strike lasts for sixty or ninety days, many industries will be forced to close down and there will not be enough coal for domestic users.

It is hardly possible that the strike can go long without violence and bloodshed; these have always accompanied big miners' strikes.

Things like the foregoing have happened a good many times in the history of the coal industry. They have been happening intermittently since the first coal strike in 1849. There have been scores of strikes in the coal industry since that time. Five of them have been comparable to the one that started Saturday. These were the strikes of 1893, 1897, 1900, 1902 and 1919.

Seasonal demand and slackness have been great promoters of strikes in the coal industry. Seasonal demand has brought about seasonal employment. There have been periods of rush work followed by longer periods of no work.

The periods of no work have brought suffering to the miners and their families and have made fertile ground for the growth of radicalism.

The periods of rush work have given miners the opportunity to obtain concessions from the operators that they could not hope to gain otherwise.

The seasonal demand has also led to the development of more mines than are necessary to supply the demands of the country if the mines were operated with any regularity. This too has tended to make the operation of other mines more intermittent with intermittent employment of miners.

There may be, and doubtless are, other things behind the coal strike but as long as the operation of the mines is seasonal and there are periods of rush work and other longer periods of unemployment there is likely to be labor trouble in the coal industry.

If the consumer of coal—the industrial user and the householder—could be induced to buy all through the year the mines might be operated with more regularity, the miner would have less excuse for striking and less chance of being successful in a strike and coal might cost the consumer less.

THE JAZZ ANTIDOTE.

Jazz music, imported from the underworld dives of Buenos Aires, began to sweep America in 1913.

Sailors brought it into New Orleans. It spread up the Mississippi river. Negro roustabouts on the levees chanted new varieties of jazz "blues."

Tramps, in their camps, which they call "jungles," caught the infection. They called jazz "snowbird music"—"snow" being the underworld name for cocaine and a "snowbird" meaning dope fiend.

Infectiously the epidemic of jazz spread over the country, evolving from jazz melodies to a form of jazz life characterized by fatalism, indifference, recklessness and immorality.

Simultaneously, the jazz germ swept Europe. In "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" you read Ibanez's fine description of France being worked to a high pitch of jazz emotionalism.

Psychiatrists recognized the jazz epidemic as one of the peculiar waves of social neurasthenia, or hysteria, which periodically sweep countries or even the whole world. The tango craze was one of these psychic epidemics.

The international wave of social hysteria culminated in the world war, violent international insanity.

The reaction is on. World sobers. Nerves calm slowly down. People are becoming normal again—thinking healthy thoughts. Jazz is passing.

During the jazz epidemic there has been a lot of worrying about young America. Youth in general seemed to have gone off on a tangent of wild prodigalism.

One morning the country woke up and was amazed to learn that the youngsters had gone crazy on wireless. The radiophone had corralled juvenile enthusiasm.

The wireless craze has developed far enough to show that it's going to be the most powerful antidote against jazz. The lad who is tinkering with Hertzian waves has his feet on the ground, is thinking clean thoughts, training his brain, soaking up useful knowledge.

The wireless fan is vaccinated against jazz, just as boys of a generation ago were kept in a healthy, normal mental state by playing Indian, building shanties, collecting bones and old junk in alleys, listening to street fakers, staging amateur minstrel shows, stringing toy telegraphs.

We are a foolish lot of sheep, we humans. But a kindly providence shepherds us, bringing us back to the fold when we stray too far from normal.

Professor says our side of Niagara will be dry in 2123. Why don't they leave prohibition alone?

BIG INCREASE IN CHURCH MEMBERSHIP.

Church membership in the United States increased 761,727 during the year 1921. This was the biggest increase ever reported in one year by the churches of America.

The jazz, bootleg liquor, the crime wave, and floggings and mob action get talked about and monopolize space but the great work of the churches goes ahead quietly and certainly.

Despite the talk of alarmists and sensationalists the world is growing better. Police records, savings bank deposits, mortality statistics and all other signs point to that fact. And the churches are doing a big part in bringing about this better condition.

But statistics show that there are in the United States more than 65,000,000 people who do not belong to any church. The total of church membership in the United States is 43,523,000. The total population, in round figures, is 110,000,000.

As remarkable as have been the gains in church membership during the past year they have little more than kept up their proportional increase with the growth in population. The churches have a big work ahead of them.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OLIVER GOLDSMITH.

Oliver Goldsmith was born November 10, 1728, at the parsonage of Pallas, county of Longford, Ireland. His father was a minister, his mother the daughter of a minister.

Oliver was the second born in a family of five boys and three girls. His early life was spent on a farm. And to this environment he owed his love of nature, his simplicity of statement, and his sincerity of soul.

I can imagine all farmers having the heart of a poet!

In school, Goldsmith's teachers considered him unusually dull. But as the boy had an imagination not appreciated by those who sought to teach him, he drank into his mind the characteristics of these teachers and later wove them into his famous poems, and stories.

Goldsmith's mother early believed that she had a genius in Oliver and so she saw to it that he was sent to college. Here he was careless and indolent in his studies but very popular with his associates.

Goldsmith was a failure at teaching, the law, medicine, in fact, everything he attempted—until he began to write. At one period of his life he supported himself by playing the flute, and by taking part in the disputes, or debates, at the universities. He was a rambler and a wanderer.

But as he progressed in his writings, the name of Oliver Goldsmith grew in lustre. He was invited into a literary club in which were many famous folk, although he was so awkward and ungainly that he felt greatly out of place there. Here it was, however, that he met three of his staunchest admirers and supporters—Dr. Samuel Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, and Burke.

Goldsmith was short, sturdy and clumsy in figure, homely in face, yet with an unusual fascination of manner that endeared him to all who really understood him.

It was Dr. Johnson who once said of Goldsmith: "Let not his faults be remembered, he was a very good man." And Washington Irving has commented: "Let them be remembered, since their tendency is to endear him."

Probably the most noted of Goldsmith's writings are "The Deserted Village," "The Vicar of Wakefield," "The Traveller," and the famous play "She Stoops to Conquer."

For pure beauty and grace of expression there have been few poems written comparable to "The Deserted Village." The heart of Goldsmith ripples through its entirety. And the thought which we carry with us longest about Goldsmith is that beauty lives forever!"

JUST FOLKS

—By— Edgar A. Guest

THE TRAGEDY OF GOLF.

What is fame and what is fortune, what are honors, tell me, pray,
If you cannot get your wrists in and your body's bound to sway?
What are all men's feeble praises for the brilliant things you do
If you haven't any rhythm and you lack a follow through?

What is glory, what is money though you have it mountain piled,
What are pomp and high position if your drives are always wild?
What are all the things men value from the cradle to the grave
If your left arm is a traitor and your shoulders won't behave?

What is worldly recognition, what is standing at the peak
Of your chosen occupation, if you cannot play the cleek?
Where's the fun in being wealthy, where's the joy in being great
If you've grown too fat to pivot and your shots are never straight?

Now happiness is something gold and silver cannot buy,
Men have said it long before us, men will say it when we die,
And how can man be happy with his money or his fame
If he's doomed through his existence to a most indifferent game?

Infected Wounds

By DR. R. H. BISHOP.

Whenever we think of wounds most of us think of danger due to great loss of blood. In ninety-nine of one hundred wounds bleeding is not dangerous.

In every wound there is danger of infection.

In every wound one of two things happens. On the one hand, a wound may heal quickly, with no danger to the patient's life or health. In this case the wound has not become infected.

On the other hand, the wound may become red and angry. It will throb with pain and the patient may have chills and fever. This is an infected wound. Blood poisoning may follow.

Germs cause infection. The germs are not the same as in contagious diseases. In wounds they are called pus forming germs. As in contagious diseases, they do not have it all their own way; the white cells in our blood defeat some of the pus germs and prevent them from doing harm.

Some germs will undoubtedly be driven into the body in every wound. Our object should be to prevent the introduction of more.

Fortunately pus germs do not float about in the air, so there is no danger in exposing a wound to the air. They are found on our hands, on knives, scissors, clothing and in water.

Surgeons have found a way to kill them, however. Advantage has been taken of this knowledge to prepare surgeons' gauze that is free from germs.

The gauze is simply cheesecloth that has been put through a special process to kill the germs. It can be bought in any drug store. It should be used to cover every wound, and should be kept on hand in every household.

Never wash a wound, for pus germs are found in water.

Instead, put on a pad of gauze at once, being very careful not to touch that part of it which is to go on the wound.

If you have no gauze and cannot procure any quickly you can take a folded towel, recently laundered, and boil it 10 minutes, squeezing out the water, but not touching the surface to go on the wound.

Texas Viewpoints

Fort Worth Record: Many men have written the past few years on the subject, "What Is the Matter With the World" or on "What Does the World Need Most?" The one answer about which there can be no dispute is that the world is suffering from an overdose of worldliness and that it needs most the spirit of God, which is what we mean when we say that we need more religion in life. Fort Worth begins this week a unique and wonderful civic and religious experience. The churches of the entire city, of every faith and shade of religious belief, are uniting in a simultaneous evangelistic movement. They are dropping differences, so far as cooperation goes, and standing, shoulder to shoulder, to emphasize the fact of man's dependence upon God and his need of God's spirit if he is to live and progress and finally become reconciled with his Maker. The differences between the great religions of the world, the schisms inside these great religions, which merely demonstrate the well known human weaknesses and the established fact that men's minds differ when they begin to feel strongly about anything, have injured the cause of religion with the unthinking. It is well that we do not all think exactly alike. This would be a dull, drab world if we did. Through honest difference of opinion comes the search for truth, comes progress, comes liberty, comes invention, comes study and service and sacrifice. On the other hand, the truly religious spirit is tolerant as well as zealous. Once the conception men had of religion and religious spirit was far different. Then men burned, tortured, imprisoned and slaw one another because of religious differences and in the name of religion. That is nearly extinct in this world now. But too many do the same thing in spirit, though they have ceased to physically. Fort Worth's simultaneous religious campaign will demonstrate the unity of all truly religious bodies in setting the things of the spirit above those of the flesh. It will prove that men can hold their individual opinions upon religious matters with even more fire and zeal than did the men of olden times and still exhibit the spirit of tolerance, the spirit of fellowship, the spirit of which the angel sang "Peace on earth, good will toward men." Trace the world's troubles and you will find along the trail worldliness, laxity of morals, intolerance, hatred, prejudice, ignorance. At the end of the trail all these will be summed up in selfishness, the sin of sins. The remedy is to reverse our steps and climb the steep and narrow path. Along the way we will progress through honesty, tolerance, friendliness, fellowship, purity, spirituality, truth and at the summit love, for "God is love." Protestant and Catholic, Jew and Gentile, all children of the living God will bow this week in recognition of dependence on the Common Father. The nonessentials of difference will seem little beside the great essentials of a common fatherhood of God, a common brotherhood of man. And out of these weeks of association in the spirit of God will come more of value to Fort Worth than all the institutions of this world can ever bring.

Denton Record-Chronicle: On April 6—which will be the fifth anniversary of America's entry into the world war—it is planned to direct public attention throughout the country again to the achievements of President Wilson in the effort to complete the Woodrow Wilson Foundation. The foundation now consists of $700,000, representing the donations of 150,000 citizens. It was originally planned to be $1,000,000, out of the interest from which would be established "America's own Nobel prizes," to be distributed by a committee on awards to American citizens who, in that year, have contributed most to the cause of world betterment—"to the individual or group that has rendered, within a specified period, meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice." There were a good many Denton citizens included in the 150,000. Denton, thanks to the efforts of those in charge, returned an amount disproportionate with the subscriptions from other Texas cities of its size. But Denton includes very many admirers of Woodrow Wilson who should be glad to make some small contribution toward bringing the fund to the amount originally set as the mark to which to work, and the Record-Chronicle would be glad to receive from them and forward to the national headquarters any sums they may feel desirous of giving.

McKinney Courier-Gazette: The upkeep of public roads that have been piked in our county is one of the most important problems that our county commissioners' court has to deal with. Gravel pikes must have attention constantly or they will rapidly disintegrate and blow and wear away. For this reason the percentage of concrete and brick roads is steadily increasing in mileage every year throughout the nation. Their initial cost is more, but their life is many times longer and their cost in upkeep is negligible.

STANDARDIZED.

The scarcity of Siamese Twins emphasizes how nature in a rough way standardizes things. Symmetry of standardization is a basic creative law—ants, sparrows and bees, for instance, being almost identical when matured.

Man did not apply nature's standardization system to manufacturing until 1862, when Springfield rifles were made with interchangeable parts for quick repairs.

Civilization of the future will be standardized—cut-and-dried. Some propagandists, enemies of originality, would even standardize thought making brains as alike as Ford cars.

HALF.

Only half as much grain will be grown in Russia this year as before the war. This news comes from the soviet commissar of agriculture.

Of all the stories that have come out of Russia about economic breakdown, this is the most illuminating.

To American farmers it means that Russia will not figure as a bear factor in the wheat market next fall.

GOLD.

A gold rush has started in the Cedar Creek and Quesnal districts of British Columbia. A never-say-die prospector uncovered the yellow metal. News leaked out. Over snow trails flocked a greedy swarm, and all ground within 10 miles of the discovery has been staked.

As soon as anyone discovers a new invention, a good business location or other short-cut to wealth, the imitators, patent pirates and parasites surround him.

It seems to be fundamental in human nature. That's why the lock and key was one of man's first inventions.

FLOODS.

River engineers say the levees along the Mississippi, from the mouth of the Ohio to the Gulf of Mexico, in most places are now able to hold the river even if it goes five feet higher than ever before.

The $50,000,000 for Mississippi levees, appropriated by congress in 1917, was money well spent.

The levees now protect 15,000,000 acres of land formerly subject to overflow, home of nearly 1,000,000 people. The fight that has been waged by the levee builders for more than 200 years appears to be nearly won.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is credulous.

It's pronounced — kred-you-lus with accent on the first syllable.

It means—inclined to believe, apt to believe on slight evidence, easily imposed upon, gullible.

It comes from—Latin "credere," to believe.

Companion word—credulity.

It's used like this—"Those who promote wildcat stock schemes prey on credulous persons."

Magic Bean For Flour.

KEW, ENGLAND. — Successful production of the soy bean of the orient in this district last year has led to broader plans for its growth throughout England. By a recent discovery, soy bean flour is made wholesome, palatable and kept fresh.

PRESS COMMENT ON DEATH OF HON. LUCIAN W. PARRISH

San Antonio Light: It is not meet that men should question the acts of Providence, for man's reason rises no higher than the level of earthly affairs. But when death stills the heart of one who had no apparent fault, as faults are judged by the finite man, and who was respected and admired even by those whose personal ambitions and interests clashed with his own, the mystery of life and its purposes cannot but deepen. Why was it that Abraham Lincoln was removed from human affairs at a time when it seemed to his countrymen that his services were scarcely less vitally needed than they had been in the days of threatened disruption of the union? No one can know, no one dare guess. Lincoln himself had premonitions of his fate; he was given to dreams, and shortly before his assassination he expressed the quiet conviction that something unusual was going to happen. The end came as though the man had been created for a single purpose, with no other worth-while task to perform after his one great mission had been fulfilled. A few days ago the news dispatches contained an item that brought sadness to many people who barely knew the man whose death was thus reported, and not only sadness in many cases, but perhaps a realization of the fact that human beings know next to nothing about the considerations which move Providence, or, indeed, whether Providence is moved by what man calls "considerations." The end of things earthly had come for Lucian W. Parrish, a member of the congress from the Thirteenth district of Texas. To many Texans Mr. Parrish was unknown, politically at least. He had held a political position for nearly four years, but he was not known as a politician, and it is doubtful if that word would ever have been coupled with his name. But he had recently come into wider public notice as a candidate for the United States Senate. It is vain to speculate upon the chance he might have had. But is it entirely that were his? No member of the Texas delegation in congress seemed to have brighter prospects than he. The salient fact, however, is that he had attained his station in life through his own sturdy, honest, manful efforts, unaided except by those who helped him for the sheer joy of holding up the hands of one who fights cleanly and bears no malice even in defeat. Many men are hardened in the process of making their own fortunes. Mr. Parrish had fought his own battles from his youth, earning his own way through college and beginning the practice of law with hardly more than sufficient funds to pay his first month's office rent. But contact with hardships seemed to deepen the qualities that attracted and held men to him. Even his political rivals, on the day of his death, cancelled their speaking engagements and sent messages of condolence to his family; the house of representatives adjourned as an expression of sorrow, and the flag on the Texas capitol was lowered to half mast. Mr. Parrish was a stalwart Texan—stalwart in both body and soul. Though it is vain to speculate upon what heights he might have attained in his political career had he been spared to work away on his own plans, it is not vain to record the fact that his record, short as it was stands as one of which Texans may well be proud.

clearly as it were yesterday he remembered the day she had declared to him her choice In the Cathedral cloisters Walking together And suddenly in the midst of indifferent things she told him I say Marko I'm going to marry Lord Tybar

And his reply the model of indifference Are you Nona"

He came upon the picture of himself alone with Nona—alone with her black hair beautiful face—and sang to her Look here there were three things you said three expressions you used Explain them Nona Explain There with your gloves off Explain Fotsam Explain Well I had to come Explain them Nona—for God's sake

CHAPTER V

I

But it was October before he asked her to explain them The Tybars as he learnt when he next met her a week after her visit to the office were only at Northrepps for a breath in space after their foreign tour Through the summer they were given the usual social round ending in Scotland Back in October for the shooting and wintering there through the hunting season

There was the occasion of a little dinner party at Northrepps to which he had come with Mabel Major Hopscotch Millet and one or two others were among the guests

Nona came with them to the door on their departure Sabre was last down the steps Well I shall see you again till October she said

No till October He had no more than touched her hand and turned away

She was close behind him He heard her give the tiniest little catch at her breath She said Shall I call to you Marko"

He turned towards her She was smiling as though it was a cliffing remark she had made Her shoulders

And the answer I her from behind his own shield Oh well I'm bad at letters you know

But their eyes met with no shields before them and she was wounded for he just caught her voice as he went down the steps Oh Marko do write to me

He got into the cab Major Millet followed the seat next Millet

As the horse turned Millet inquired What was Felix Tybar talking to you about all that time"

He said Oh just saying goodby

But he was thinking That's a fourth question Why did you say Oh Marko do write to me'? Or was that the answer to the other questions although I never asked them?'

CHAPTER VI

I

A drapery occupied the premises opposite Fortune Fast and Sabre's On an October afternoon just before 5 00 o'clock Sabre saw Nona alight from her car and go into the drapery He put on his hat and coat and descended into the street. As he crossed the road she came out

Hello Marko

What about having some tea somewhere?

I think that's a good idea"

He suggested the Cloister Tea Rooms She spoke to the chauffeur and accompanied him

Nona began sum account of her summer visitations Sabre spoke a little of local businesses But the subjects were but skirmishers thrown out before dense armies of thoughts that massed behind them and trifled and rode away With pretense of drawing out the meal could no longer be maintained Nona looked at her watch Well I must be getting back We haven't had a particularly enormous tea but the chauffeur's had none

Sabre said Yes let's get out of this It was as though the thing had been a strain

He put her into the car She was so very very quiet He said I've half a mind to drive up with you I'd like a ride and a walk back

II

They were within the gates It had been a dull day Evening stood mistily far up the long avenue of the drive and in the distances about the park on either hand Among October's massing leaves a small disquiet stirred The leaves banked orderly between their parents trunks Sabre noticed as a curious thing how when they stirred they only trembled in their massed formations not broke their ranks as if some live thing ran beneath them

He said Do you know what this seems to me? It seems as though it was only yesterday or this morning that you came to see me at the office and we talked Well I want it to be only yesterday I want to go on from there

She said Yes

He hardly could hear the word He looked at her She was as tall as he Not least of the contributions to her beauty in his eyes was the slim grace of her stature But her face was averted and he wanted moste terribly to see her face Stand a minute and look at me Nona He touched her arm I want to see your face

She turned towards him and raised her eyes to his eyes Oh what is it you want to say Marko"

There was that which glistened upon her lower lids and about her mouth were trembling movements and in her throat a pulse beating

He said It's you I want to say something I want you to explain some things Some things you said Nona when you came into my room that day and shook hands you said Here I'm you have your hand You took off your glove and said There I want to know why you said There' And you said Well I had to come And you said you were flotsam And that night—when we'd been up to you—you said Oh Marko do write to me' I want you to explain what you meant"

She said Oh how can you remember?'

He answered 'Because I remember you must explain

Please let me sit down Marko' She faltered a little laugh I can explain better sitting down'

A felled trunk had been placed against the trees facing towards the parkland They went to it and he sat beside her She sat upright but bending forward a little over her crossed knees her hands clasped on them looking before her across the park

No you must look at me he said

She very slowly turned her body towards him He thought her most beautiful and the expression of her beautiful face was most terrible to him in all his experience

III

She spoke very slowly almost with a perceptible pause between each word She said Well I'll tell you I said flotsam didn't If I explain that—you know what flotsam is Marko Have you ever looked it up in the dictionary The dictionary says it terribly Goods shipwrecked and found floating on the sea I'm twenty eight Marko I suppose that's not really very old It seems a terrible age to me You see you judge age by what you are in contrast with what you were If you're very happy I think it can't matter how old you are If you look back to when you were happy and then come to now when you're not it

"I ought to have married you, Marko,' seems a most terrible and tremendous gulf—and you see yourself just floating—drifting farther and farther away from the happy scene and just being taken along into nothing to God knows where God knows to what

She put out the palms of her hands towards white misty evening banked somberly across the park 'That's very frightening Marko'

Well all the time there was you Marko In those two years when we were away it got awful In those two years I knew I was flotsam One day—in India—I went and looked at it in the little dictionary in my writing case and I knew I was Do you know what I did? I crossed out flotsam in the dictionary and wrote Nona There it was and it was the most exact thing Nona goods shipwrecked and found floating in the sea I meant have torn out the page I forgot I left it there and I my saw it

Sabre said What did he say?" In all she had told him there was something omitted He knew that his question approached the missing quantity But she did not answer it

He had desired her to look at him, but it was he who had turned away It sat with his head between his hands his elbows on his knees

She repeated with rather a plaintive note as thought in his pose she saw some pain she had caused him

You see I had know you all my life Marko——

He said still looking upon the ground between his feet But you haven't explained anything You've only told me You haven't explained why

She said with astounding simplicity Well you see Marko I made a mistake I made a most frightful mistake I chose I chose wrong I ought to have married you Marko"

And his words were a groan. Nona—Nona——

Fred "Caruso" Beck, a Veteran Of Seventeen Campaigns, Is Real Asset of the National Pastime

By PAUL W. LARKIN

When Walter Salm announced last winter that he had purchased Fred "Caruso" Beck from the Wichita (Kans.) club of the Western league, the wise Spudder rooters declared in one voice, "Salm's ball club is made There'll be no more games lost at first base." Of course it takes nine men to make a ball club and the question will never be definitely infield is the most important. That's infield is the most important. That's a matter of opinion But it's a lead pipe cinch that first base is one of the most important and that a club with a weak first sacker will not get very far. That has been brought home to Wichita Falls fans the past two years.

Whatever success the Wichita Falls club may attain this season it is a foregone conclusion that Fred will be one of the most important cogs in the machine, if not the most important. A veteran of seventeen years in organized ball, "Caruso" is still a youngster. Of the aggregation of ball tossers out at Athletic park every day, none has more "pep" than Fred and his willingness to work and help the younger members of the squad at all times has made him a prime favorite with every member of the squad. As a "fellow among fellows" he is probably the biggest "kid" on the entire roster and many a prank has been played on the players in the clubhouse this season which could be traced to him with a little investigation. He is good natured to a fault almost, and his new friends and companions in Wichita Falls have yet to see him lose his temper or become riled at anything.

Not a "Temperamental" Player

The writer has been associated with the subject of this sketch only a few short weeks, but in that period has never seen a change in his demeanor and those who have known him longer say that he has always been the same. He is one of the few really good players who is lacking in what is known as "temperament"—that characteristic which often ruins the player. Despite the long record of which he could boast if he so desired, he is modestly personified. He is as unassuming as they make 'em and the reader who finishes this article will readily understand that he could easily be otherwise.

Fred was born in the little town of Havana, Ill., 35 years ago—on November 17, 1886, to be exact Eighteen years later he broke into organized ball in his home state with Bloomington of the Three-Eye league. Fred was a hurler in those days, but it did not take him long to come to the conclusion that as a hurler he was a good outfielder so in 1907 he started playing the outfield with the same club. His pitching was not so bad, but his hitting was so good that his boss figured he would be more valuable in the pastures where he could get his cuts every day instead of once or twice a week.

Shifts From Box to Field.

In 1908 he gave up the idea of pitching altogether and as a regular outfielder he soon attracted the attention of the managers higher up Before the season was over he was sold to the Frisco club in the Pacific Coast league for one thousand smackers—a healthy sum for a class AA organization to pay for a minor leaguer in those days. At the end of that season he was drafted by the Boston Nationals for $500—a mere pittance as compared to prices nowadays, but the regular price in 1908

He was with the Boston Nationals in 1909 when the club was known as the Doves and was one of the famous quartet of B's that played the outfield—Becker, Bates, Beaumont and Beck. He remained with the Braves in 1910 and tied Frank Schulte of the Cubs that year in circuit smashes, poling eleven. A slugger who can't smash out more than eleven home runs in a season now isn't considered such-a-much, but it was no small feat in that period During the winter of 1910 he was sold to Cincinnati and was traded in the middle of the following season to the Phillies for players and cash In the winter of 1911 he was sold by the Phillies to Buffalo in the International and began his career at first base that season. Since joining Buffalo, Fred has played no position except first base.

Jumps to Federal League.

He remained with the Bisons during the seasons of 1911 and 1912 and the following year jumped to the Chicago Federals. He was one of the stars of the outlaw organization while it lived and was considered one of the best first sackers in the game in 1914 and 1915

When the Federal league blew up, Beck was turned over to the Kansas City club in the American association, but he was a free agent and he gave up the game for a while, entering the hotel business in Peoria, Ill The lure of the game was too strong, however, and before the season was over he jumped into the fray with the Peoria club in the Three-Eye league. Though the season was well under way he wound up, at the top of the home run hitters with 17 to his credit.

He went back into the hotel business in 1917 shortly after the season opened and was out of baseball the greater part of the year He answered Uncle Sam's call in 1918 and spent the greater part of the next two years overseas, managing the 88th division ball club in France He still talks of the last game his club played "over there" when "Lefty" Carmen opposed his crew. There were plenty of francs wagered on that game and many of Carmen's backers went without their cognac money for several weeks after the ninth inning

To Wichita After War.

After receiving an honorable discharge he sold his services to the Wichita club in the Western in 1920, remaining with that club until purchased by Salm last winter Last season he led the Western loop in home runs, garnering 31, and he is expected to make the Texas swatsmiths look to their laurels this season.

Fred's fielding ability is often overlooked, due to the grand batting average he piles up every year, but it has been a long time since the Texas league boasted of as nifty a fielding first baseman. Tall and rangy, with an ability to stretch several feet in any direction, he makes an admirable target for the rest of the infield to shoot at and it is practically an impossibility to throw a ball by him. He digs them out of the dirt with as much apparent ease as he catches a perfect peg. No longer will the spudder infielders have to wait before pegging away because they know they have a man at the other end capable of spearing anything within reason and one who will save them many an error.

Though Fred is not what might be called the hero type, in that he derives no pleasure in being worshiped, he is a "great mixer" His excellent tenor voice has brought him many bids to private homes both at home and while his club is on the road He was dubbed "Caruso" about ten years ago by a Chicago sport scribe and the nickname has stuck ever since When Beck's name is brought up in conversation the first question usually popped is "D'ja ever hear him sing?" If you haven't you've missed a treat

Peaceful On Field.

Fred explains his excellent condition after seventeen years of faithful service to his regular living. He has avoided the numerous pitfalls which have ruined many stars and is one of the most temperate players in the game today In fact, there are none more temperate

As another sidelight into his character it might be mentioned that "Caruso" has never had a run-in with an umpire on the ball field Some record for seventeen years, is it not? And if the writer is any judge of men, he could be in the game for seventeen more without being "parked" He's all business on the ball field and is always out there to win He's a true sportsman on and off the field, always giving his "all," and he is an asset to any club in the country. That's Fred Beck.

FRED "CARUSO" BECK, SPUDDER FIRST BASEMAN

BECK LEADS HITTERS EXHIBITION GAMES

Spudder First Baseman Swatting Agate Well Over .500 Mark.

The batting averages of the Spudders, now on Salm's roster, in the exhibition games to date reveal that "Caruso" Beck is the real leader of the club, having smashed out 19 hits out of 33 trips to the plate for an average of .576. Miller and O'Brien (the greatest outfield in the Texas league) have also been pounding the pill on the nose and are well over the .300 mark. Miller has been sailing along at a 400 clip while Summa and O'Brien are hitting .381 and .375 respectively. Following are the averages to date:

The McDonald Case.

Never in the history of local baseball was a greater stir created than on Monday afternoon when Manager Walter Salm of the Spudders imposed a $300 fine on Tex McDonald for "his actions on the ball field Sunday" and the question that seems to be uppermost in the minds of the fans today is whether McDonald will play third base for the Spudders this season Salm has refused to discuss the case other than to admit that Tex had been fined and deny that he had been suspended. If the Spudder boss continues in the same frame of mind as he was in Sunday night and Monday it would not be a bit surprising if a new third baseman would be at Athletic park by April 13 The writer has been in close touch with the Spudder boss for two years and never in that time has he seen him so "het up" as he has been since the last Cardinal game.

Fans Approve Action.

The infliction of the penalty by the Spudder boss met with the instant approval of the fans as it showed that he and he alone is running his club and that no individual player will dictate to him Salm is anxious to win a pennant. There can be no doubt of that in anyone's mind But the game comes first with him and he declares that he would sacrifice a pennant rather than have baseball's good name besmirched. Whether Tex will be at his old station when the gong rings practically rests with Tex If the severe penalty has caused him to see the light and he proves to Walter that he's willing to behave, he might stick; but he'll have to show Walter that he's ready to get in the game and stay in the game.

Could Be Popular Player.

It is to be hoped that Tex has seen the light. Thus far this season he hasn't shown the slightest disposition to get into condition and help the ball club. Were Tex to show any inclination to serve local fandom as it should be served he would be one of the most popular players on the club. He has been extremely popular at times, and extremely unpopular at times. It is nobody's fault but his own. Though he has seen long service on the ball field, Tex is still a great ball player—if he wants to be. Were he to get out and hustle every day there wouldn't be a better minor league third baseman and that's a broad but true assertion. He still hits with the topnotchers, is faster than the majority, and has a whip second to none. But with all his great ability, he's not too great for any club. There never was a player so great but that his position could be and has been capably filled by another Texas does not seem to realize that.

Served Creditably In 1921.

Much adverse criticism was directed at McDonald last year and at Salm for keeping him. But his record shows that he played good ball and as long as he played good ball Salm was satisfied. Things have been different thus far this year. Tex hasn't used the ball club right nor has he justified Salm's faith in him. As said before, it is to be hoped that Tex has learned his lesson The fine slapped on him was one of the greatest ever imposed on a player by a minor league manager. It was big enough to hurt but was the Skipper's only recourse and he is to be commended for it. A manager who won't run his own club isn't worthy of the name. Let Tex show local fans what a really great player he is and all will be well. But let him slip once more, if it isn't too late already, and he'll be shifted to other scenes

Infield Shifts Coming.

Despite all the good ball players Walter had on deck three weeks ago he is still unable to give any inkling of the four men who will be guarding the inner works April 13. Fred Beck is the only sure bet. The skipper has several irons in the fire and told the writer yesterday that before the Omaha series he would have a real story for the fans. Naturally the story will deal with the infield, but as has been his habit in the past Walter will not put anything out of his own free will until a deal has been completed. He hinted at a couple that listened mighty well and if they can only be put through he'll be sitting on top of the world.

May Use Buddy at Second.

There is more than a slight possibility of Buddy Tanner being used at second base before the season is over. Buddy's arm has not come through as rapidly as was hoped, though the fact that he has not been cutting them across the diamond in midseason form should not be taken as a criterion. Buddy never was a spring ball player and is not trying to break any throwing records yet, but the old whip lacks the pep it had last year at this time. He is altogether too valuable a man to be kept out of the game, and should fill the berth at second base most acceptably. The throw from that station is much shorter and throwing is Buddy's one and only weakness. If grit and nerve were all that was necessary Buddy would play any position on the diamond.

INSIDE STUFF

CARDS HOPE TO WIN FLAG THIS SEASON

Only Five New Faces Possessed By Manager Branch Rickey.

By NEA Service.

Out of a crop of almost 50 athletes starting this 1922 training season for the St. Louis Cardinals Manager Branch Rickey will have but 28 when the National league pennant race starts.

Which proves that all who aspire to major league fame do not develop into duplicates of Babe Ruth, Rogers Hornsby, George Sisler, Tris Speaker, Tyrus Cobb, Christy Mathewson and Eddie Collins in their first spring.

One by one Rickey applied the release slip until he found that he possessed only five new faces. They are added to the 23 who received the bonus for finishing third last October.

The new players are Del Gainer, first baseman and outfielder; Shortstop Earl Adams, Herbert Steen, pitcher and outfielder; Catcher Herbert Benninghoven and Pitcher Clyde Barfoot.

But with a club showing the strength the Cardinals possessed last summer there was not much room for a rookie. Here and there Rickey attempted to strengthen his forces. He dealt mostly around the hill, considerded the weakest spoke in the wheel, and he was only able to come up with Barfoot, a product of the Houston club of the Texas league.

The pitching talent proved a bitter disappointment to Rickey. He brought in Lester Montgomery, Adolfo Arguijo, Fuller, Pierotti, Denton, Barnes, Rinehart and Barfoot. One received his diploma—Barfoot, who was the best pitcher in the Texas league last season.

Barfoot, a right hander, will have his chance for fame, for upon the pitching strength rests the future of the knothole entry.

Rinehart is a mystery. Here is a southpaw who booms annually as a minor leaguer but fizzles when he joins the Cardinals.

The Pitching Staff

Barefoot is added to Bill Doak, Ed Pfeffer, Marven Goodwin, Jesse Haines, Arthur Riviere, Bill Bailey, Louis North, Bill Sherdel, Bill Pertica and Roy Walker.

The pitching staff presents this problem: Where is there one who will pocket 25 victories? If he is found then Rickey sees a chance for the pennant.

Pfeffer may fill the bill. He has been a hard worker for Rickey all spring.

Bill Doak, although leading the National league pitchers in 1921, has been ailing all spring with a sore arm, and a break in Bill's spitter would be a calamity in the ranks of the Cardinals.

Two who made their debut last spring may solve the entire affair They are Pertica and Walker, both right handders. The experience of last season may turn them into hill stars.

The only real new strength found with the Cardinals is in the morale of the club which counts considerable

All the players participated in the training course where last year Stock and Smith did not join the club until the opening of the regular season.

It is this winning spirit which is expected to become a prominent factor in the Cardinals.

And it must not be forgotten that they lost 15 of their first 20 games in 1921 and then came down the stretch with such a rush that they gave the Giants a scare for the pennant and almost nipped the Pittsburg Pirates for second place.

VETERAN FIRST BASEMAN WINS OVER RECRUIT

"Doc" Johnston, who was almost waived out of the American league, will start the season as the regular first baseman of the Philadelphia Americans

Joe Hauser, the much touted first sacker from Milwaukee, will be forced to bide his time

Mack secured Hauser in a deal that took several players to Milwaukee plus some money Because of a grievance he believed he had against Milwaukee over his sale he was the last man to report at Eagle Pass, the training camp of the Athletics.

It was a bad move on Hauser's part. Johnston, anxious to stick in the big show, reported in fine shape, worked hard and is certain to start the season.

Since Johnston always goes big guns for the first half of the season it may be around July before Hauser gets a real chance to show his worth.

Jimmy Dykes will play second, Chick Galloway third and either Callaway or Barrett short

Mack is confident this infield will be a big improvement over last year.

That is one reason why he expects to win more games, a stronger defense

STATES GOLF HELPS HIM IN BILLIARDS

Schaefer Ascribes Much of His Success to Work On the Greens.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 4.—To the average person it is a long way from the golf green to the billiard table, but "Young Jake" Schaefer, champion of the world at 18.2 balk line billiards, finds them almost the same and ascribes much of his success on the green cloth of the billiard table to constant efforts on the greens of the outdoor game Jake is virtually the only billiard star in the world who has used golf to improve his work with the ivories, but his time as best in the world at the indoor sport and his brilliant play in the recent championship match with Willie Hoppe, for which he trained almost entirely with golf, support the champion's contentions that one game helps the other.

FAVORITES LEADING IN NORTH-SOUTH TOURNEY

PINEHURST, N. C., April 4—Favorites were well out in front when the second 18 holes of the 36 hole qualify round of the 22nd north and south amateur golf championship was played today A number of the favorites did well enough yesterday to be certain of making the championship 16 if they play well today, but there will be a struggle for a number of the places.

W. C. Fownes Jr. of Oakmont, Al Walker Jr. of Richmond Country, F. C. Newton of Brookline, John A Gammons of Providence, Harold Weber of Toledo, Henry Topping of Greenwich, and Arthur Yates of Rochester were among the favorites who played well enough yesterday to qualify if they maintain the same place today.

CONFIRMS REPORT HE IS TO PLAY SEMI-PRO BALL

PARIS, TEXAS, April 4—Dick Kerr last night confirmed the fact that he will play with the City Hall semi-professional club of Chicago this season He has been awaiting the outcome of a proposal made some time since whereby Kerr would have gone to Cleveland, which is willing to meet his terms. M'DONALD DECLARES HE'LL BE HERE WHEN GONG RINGS APRIL 13

"You mark my words" declared Tex McDonald, Spudder third baseman to a Times representative Tuesday, "I'll be out there at the hot corner when the gong rings April 13 if good condition and good ball playing have anything to do with it."

Tex was in a rather penitent mood Tuesday morning as he discussed the fine which was slapped on him by his boss and stated that though $300 was a lot of money to nick a minor league ball player he guessed he had it coming to him

"I am sorry the whole affair took place" he said "as I do not feel that I was using either the club or the fans right, but I've learned my lesson and am ready to be good I don't know what Walter's plans are as I suppose I would be the last one to be told, but I do know that he'll not have any trouble with me in the future In fact, we never did have much trouble I am not as head-strong as some people would like to believe and am always ready to take and obey orders on the field I'd rather play ball for Saim than any manager I know and the fans have always treated me white here

I'll be out there hustling from now until September if he decides to keep me and I believe that if I perform my level best there will be no doubt about my staying"

Skipper Saim stated that the incident was closed as far as he was concerned and that he had nothing further to say about the matter Hence it would seem as the matter stands at present that McDonald will play here this year if he does the right thing But it's a foregone conclusion that he won't if he crosses the boss again

Dodgers Are Well Fortified With Good Substitutes

The strength of a ball club is rated by the ability of its substitutes to deliver when called on

The Brooklyn club appears to be well fortified this year in every position Last year the Dodgers were sadly lacking in this respect

Robbie has secured enough good infield talent to make a shift he has been trying to accomplish for five years

That is placing Ivy Olson at second where the old war horse will have less territory to cover and a shorter throw, leaving the short stopping for a younger and faster man

Sam Crane bought from the Reds for $7500, looks to have the inside grip on the job but he is being hard pressed by the rejuvenated Chuck Ward

Jimmy Johnston 326 hitter and the club's best base runner last year will start at third but if he fa ters in fielding Andy High the fast little recruit from Memphis is there to jump him

Robbie is sweet on High who has been going great guns in the practice and makes an ideal leadoff man If High crowds Johnston the latter is slated to be Olson's understudy at second and may yet be the regular keystone guardian should Ivy falter

Even Ray Schmandt the regular first sacker has a rival in Sam Post who was farmed out as a pitcher last spring and returned a promising first baseman

Post is a left-handed thrower and has been compared to Jake Daubert when that star broke in with the Dodgers Sam hits them hard and far In the offing is Hal Janvrin who is being touted as the best all-around utility man extant

CONFIDENCE VOTE A GREAT VICTORY FOR LLOYD GEORGE

CLEARS POLITICAL ATMOSPHERE IN BRITISH OFFICIAL CIRCLE

PREMIER THROWS DOWN THE GAUNTLET IN DEBATE

Declared Cabinet Would Stand Or Fall on the Result of the Division.

By Associated Press

LONDON April 4—The overwhelming victory of Prime Minister Lloyd-George in the house of commons yesterday when he was given the confidence of the house by a vote of 372 to 94 has had the effect of a quick violent thunderstorm in clearing the political atmosphere

Apparently nettled by intimations that he was dodging a direct vote of confidence and presenting his resignation calling for support of the government's policy toward the Genoa conference the premier threw down the gauntlet early in the debate and declared the cabinet would stand or fall on the result of the division The result left no doubt as to the strength of the government

The opposition centered its attack behind the labor amendment which would have declared lack of confidence in the government When that went down in an avalanche of nays the issue was as good as decided

The issue against the coalition however has not been abandoned and Sir William Joynson Hicks unionist plans to put forward in the house tomorrow a motion to the effect that in the opinion of the house lack of definite and consistent principle in the policy of the present coalition government can only be remedied by the establishment of a ministry composed of men united by identity of political principles

MANY VETERANS IN CINCINNATI SQUAD

Manager Moran of the Cincinnati club has 30 players in training They are divided into 12 pitchers three catchers eight infielders and seven outfielders

Of the 30 players 16 are new to the team this year Of this number George Burns and Pitcher Hamilton have definitely won their big league spurs

Of the 14 players with the Reds last season just nine played through out the whole campaign with Cincinnati

From among the new men Manager Moran must develop or find two new infielders and at least one possibly two pitchers to work regularly

Moran's problem is a big one since his weakness is in the infield and pitching two most important assets

No position on the infield is more vital to the success of a club than shortstop That position must be filled it is a certainty that Jimmy Caveney, star of the Coast league will look after the job

Caveney is the big if in the Cincinnati defense.

MEXICAN MINISTER WILL CONFER WITH NEW YORK BANKERS

TO DISCUSS INTERNAL INDEBTEDNESS OF THAT COUNTRY

MAY VISIT WASHINGTON TO DISCUSS RECOGNITION

Has Conference With President of the Mexican Petroleum Company

By Associated Press

MEXICO CITY April 4—The decision of Minister of Finance de la Huerta to go to New York to confer with international bankers with reference to Mexico's external indebtedness as announced in press dispatches last night has been predicted here for several days

It is considered here that the secretary's journey will be primarily concerned with financial affairs and that if he takes occasion to visit Washington in connection with proposals for recognition of the Mexican government this action will be merely incidental

A conference is held on Secretary de la Huerta and Edward L Doheny president of the Mexican Petroleum company which is now in Mexico City is being held in view of the unofficial advices that Senor de la Huerta will probably leave Mexico City for New York arriving there by the end of the week

Mr Doheny who with a number of other oil men arrived here yesterday plans to pay a visit to President Obregon today but it is understood he will prolong his stay here so as to confer with Secretary de la Huerta on petroleum matters

In well informed circles it is stated that arrangements probably will be made whereby the export oil taxes will be paid every three months instead of monthly as the original agreement provides The production taxes however will be paid monthly as usual

Mr Doheny has declined to discuss his visit except to say Everything is in splendid shape the government has kept faith and we all have confidence in President Obregon The oil agreement made last fall has been observed
